

INDIGENOUS WOMEN

weaving together for our rights

In the world

476.6

million people are Indigenous

Indigenous Peoples represent

6.2%

of the global population

238.4
are women

238.2
are men

But, 15% of the most disadvantaged.

A GLOBAL Weave

Through its 4 strategic programs, FIMI has accompanied and supported the empowerment of Indigenous Women aged 18 to 71 from Asia, Africa, the Pacific, the Arctic, and the Americas.

FIMI, through its committed work, has reached the following:

58
COUNTRIES

266
INDIGENOUS
PEOPLES

COMMUNITY-LED Changes

A total of

40 co-investment calls

have driven transformative change by empowering more than 450

Indigenous Women's organizations in more than 723+

community projects, fostering sustainable growth and cultural preservation

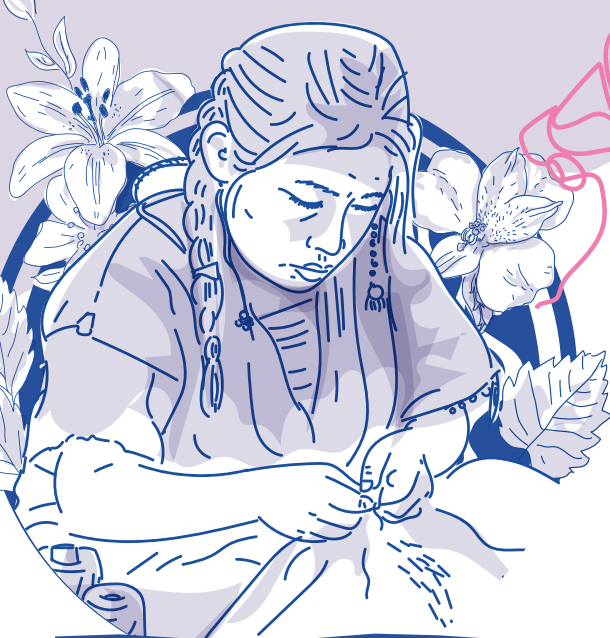

Ayni Fund

strengthening education, health, political advocacy, economic empowerment, and climate action, with a direct impact on

964,205
people and an indirect reach of 2,887,807

including Indigenous girls and boys, young women and men, women and men, and elders.

VOICES THAT INFLUENCE key spaces

150+

Indigenous Women Leaders from 5 sociocultural regions have impacted international forums
such as CEDAW, UNPFII, CSW, EMRIP, HLPF, COP, etc.

FIMI achieved

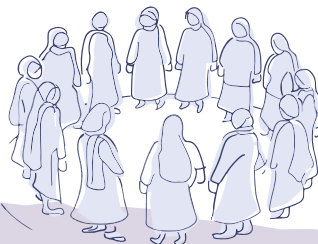

ECOSOC

The Economic and Social Council

which expands Indigenous Women's access to key spaces for advocacy and decision-making on their rights at the UN.

Collective advocacy that resulted in the adoption of CEDAW General Recommendation No. 39, promoting the full exercise of specific rights for Indigenous Girls and Women.

Through our onsite and virtual political and leadership gatherings, including our two Indigenous Women World Conferences, Linking and Learning events, regional conferences, regional trainings, etc.

OVER 2,000

Indigenous Women have actively participated and found empowerment through their engagement in these events.

WEAVING LEADERSHIP for change

249
Indigenous Women
leaders from

132
indigenous communities

48
in countries

have been trained in the 10 editions of the Global Leadership School

5 editions of the Intercultural Research Diploma have strengthened 54 Indigenous Women researchers with a decolonial and environmental justice approach

RECOGNITION and justice

18

Indigenous Women

awarded the Leadership Award
for their vision and commitment.

Creation of Wodum, the Global Observatory of Indigenous Women, to document and denounce rights violations, as well as to promote advocacy actions.

FROM COLLECTIVE ARTICULATION to a global mechanism

FIMI, born in 2000 as a space for coordination among Indigenous Women's organizations, was consolidated in 2021 as a global mechanism driven by its first Theory of Change.

Creation of 5 institutional - operational units and implementation of 26
institutional policies to enhance governance and management.

A diverse and dynamic board of directors, ensuring inclusive decision-making and effective advocacy.

From a small team of people, FIMI grew to become a team of 26 people present in 12 countries and representing 14 Indigenous Peoples.

Global alliances with feminist funds, philanthropy, and governments, strengthening Indigenous leadership.

Co-investment and intercultural
research models
applied globally.

We envision a world free from all forms of discrimination — a world where we are empowered and actively realizing our individual and collective human rights.